PART-TIME PROGRAMS

Part-time programs at PACE are designed for today's busy adult learner.

We keep in mind the responsibilities of daily life to help you create balance while achieving your life-long learning goals.

Courses are scheduled throughout the year and typically begin at the start of the Fall, Winter and Spring Terms. Part-time programs are typically delivered in the evenings or on weekends. You can choose to enrol in a diploma or certificate program or register for individual courses and seminars.

Choose the pace that's best for you. Take courses concurrently to reach your goals more quickly or take your time—you've got up to five years to complete your program. (Please note that some courses have prerequisites and must be taken in order.)

MAKING THE BIG CONNECTIONS

Khal Shariff: Internet Systems Specialist Diploma

Khal has always dreamt big, but even he couldn't have imagined his future clients would include the likes of NASA, the Canadian Space Agency, the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, and Mozilla.

K

hal started his career with a computer science degree at a major corporation. It was work he enjoyed, but he still had a dream: start his own company. "I wanted to be my own boss—make my own mistakes." He went back to school and spent a year pursuing the Internet Systems Specialist Diploma full-time, making his plans and setting his sights high. "Taking that year off to study really limited the distractions," said Khal. "It was just what I needed."

With respected instructors leading the way, Khal says he was able to bring together his background from his degree, his self-taught skills, and all the new information from the cutting edge of the industry. "It was very challenging," admits Khal. But the program allowed him to start his first few contracts while he was still in school, and begin moving in the right direction. Soon, he was building a business in educational technology and working with world-class partners.

Despite a thriving company and busy career, Khal is dedicated to bringing along the next generation of technology students. In addition to his own projects, he has also taught in the ISSD program through PACE.

MAKING EDUCATION BETTER – TOGETHER

Diane Goltz: Educational Assistant Diploma Program

Some days, a struggling student needs help getting and staying on track. Other days, a teacher could just use an extra pair of hands.

iane says what she loves most about her job as an Educational Assistant is that she never knows what each day will bring. But what she does know is that through her job, she can help make the educational experience better for everyone.

“The Educational Assistant Diploma Program gave me a lot of practical strategies,” said Diane. Whether it’s how to spot a child who needs extra attention or knowing the best way to support a teacher’s goals,

Diane says there’s a lot to learn about being effective in a classroom. With skilled instructors from a wide range of backgrounds, each class she found there was something new that she could take away and add to her own repertoire. Diane says not only did she gain the tools she needed, the program gave her something more: confidence. “I really feel like the program gave me an edge.”

DREAM COME TRUE

Brigitte Burgoyne: Public Relations Marketing Management Diploma

Brigitte worked hard to get her university degree. But she knew she needed something more to help her get the edge. She chose PACE.

“I was really ready to be there,” remembers Brigitte. “It was such a complimentary progression from being in a general arts degree to focussing in on the career that you want.”

She already knew which direction she planned to take, but needed to narrow her options. PACE helped her focus. “It was definitely an eye-opener how many avenues you can take within public relations,” said Brigitte, listing project management, marketing and communications as just a few. “The program really prepared me about what to expect from each career path.”

By the time she reached her internship, Brigitte knew she was ready for the next step. The only thing she needed was time to gain some experience. And it’s that experience that Brigitte says made all the difference. “My internship at the Canadian Wheat Board taught me about both agriculture and marketing,” said Brigitte. “When my dream job came up at Cargill, I was ready.”

TAKING CARE OF BUSINESS SYSTEMS

Lisa Carr: Business Systems Analyst Diploma Program

When a new IT position came up at her workplace, Lisa knew she could do it. The only thing in her way? The paperwork.

The job Lisa wanted required her to have either a diploma or certificate. So, she did her research, found the program that would help her get where she was going, and buckled down to work.

“The instructors at PACE were incredible,” said Lisa. “If you didn’t understand something, they really took the time to help you.” Turns out, that means in the classroom and out. “Sometimes we even found ourselves on Skype on the weekend!”

She also found that instead of a competitive atmosphere amongst the students, she found her classmates were her biggest supporters. “We were all working towards a common goal,” remembers Lisa. “They were such a positive, really good group of people that we get together even now!”

MAKING THE MOST OF A SECOND CHANCE

Nolan Bradshaw: Human Resources Management Diploma and Management Certificate

Nolan had tried postsecondary studies once before. Straight out of high school with no clear direction, it was easy to get lost in the crowd. He thought maybe it just wasn't for him. But then he found PACE.

t PACE, the small class sizes meant I was always with the same people. Everyone was going through the same things as I was," said Nolan. "I finally had a support system." With an end in mind—starting his own business—and caring faculty and peers helping him stay on track, Nolan worked hard to make the most of his second chance. "I had a set goal in mind and a time period to accomplish it," said Nolan. "Along the way, there were people helping me make it happen."

Along with the support, he says he credits the professionalism and expertise of his instructors with helping him get the most out of the program. "These are people with real-life experience, not just theory. It made a big difference."

HER OWN BEAT

Clandelle Johnston: Police Preparation Diploma

Clandelle plans to work in law enforcement. She knows it's going to be a challenge, but she's up for it. And she's going to do whatever she can to make her dream happen.

aking the Police Preparation Diploma is one of the best decisions I could have made," says Clandelle. She knows it's brought up her skills in writing, grammar, and presentation, which will help her ace the tests and interviews. Outside the classroom, Clandelle has worked on practical skills as a volunteer with the Downtown Biz. "I actually got to walk the beat," she said. "You learn how to handle a situation using your mind instead of just using your authority."

Guest speakers helped bring the various career options in law enforcement to life. Lecturers included not only the Police Service, but also Corrections, the RCMP, and first responders. "It was good to hear from people who are actually doing the different jobs," she said. "It was a real eye-opener—it's so much more than what you see in the media."

Not only has the program given her a whole new insight into law enforcement careers, it's also helped her build a network of professionals to call on when she's ready to make her start. "They have all been so supportive," she said. "Everyone really wants to see you succeed."

STAYING AT THE TOP OF HIS GAME

Trevor Sinclair, PMP: Master's Certificate in Project Management

No matter how good a job you're doing, there's always room for improvement.

W hen Trevor started the Master's Certificate in Project Management, he was already a confident and capable project leader. For Trevor, the goal wasn't to learn a new profession—it was taking his current career to the next level.

"No matter how long you have been in a job, there is always something new to learn," said Trevor.

His classmates—all from different industries—gave him fresh perspectives they had gained from their own career paths. His instructors brought him up to speed on ever-changing best practises. Together, the group shared their collective body of expertise, helping everyone refine their skills while picking up new ones.

For Trevor, the course was well worth it. "I'm definitely a better project leader because of this course," he said.

"When you have a full-time job and a family it's really challenging to take a course," acknowledged Trevor. "But things were set up to really maximize our time—that made a big difference. I'd encourage anyone from our industry to do it."

BUSINESS ANALYST'S COURSE

Business Analysts are the link between the customer and the project. This means identifying the needs of the customer and translating those needs into business requirements. In turn, those requirements are used to develop new products, services and systems to build business and better serve the customer.

This fundamental course focuses on key roles and responsibilities while laying out all of the steps in the business requirement process from customer identification to customer satisfaction.

CANADIAN RISK MANAGEMENT

The Canadian Risk Management Program (CRM) designation is awarded to students who have successfully completed a series of three courses that present a comprehensive overview of the techniques and measures available to control the risks from property, personnel, liability and net income loss exposures.

Global Risk Management Institute, Inc. issues the certification that is recognized by the Risk & Insurance Management Society, Inc., and the Insurance Institute of Canada.

CERTIFICATE IN ESSENTIALS OF MODELLING & PROBLEM SOLVING

This 5 day certificate will equip you with the knowledge and techniques needed to generate processes for problem solving, exploring alternatives, generating creative solutions, and learning key analysis models to analyze, formalize and validate requirements. Composed of two independent courses; Creativity, Critical Thinking and Problem Solving (2 days) and Modeling the Business Problem and Solution (3 days).

Extra Motivation!

“ TWENTY YEARS FROM NOW YOU WILL BE MORE DISAPPOINTED BY THE THINGS THAT YOU DIDN'T DO THAN BY THE ONES YOU DID DO. ”
- MARK TWAIN

CERTIFICATE IN REQUIREMENTS MANAGEMENT

This 5 day certificate equips you with the knowledge, techniques and best practices to ensure that stakeholders' user requirements are planned, understood and managed. The result is solutions that meet the organization's business needs and satisfied clients. Composed of two independent courses; Planning, Validating and Managing User Requirements (2 days) and Eliciting User Requirements (3 days).

LEAN 5 DAY GREEN BELT WORKSHOP

Lean Green Belt is a specialized course on applying Lean principles, tools and techniques to identify and remove any non-value added activities in your everyday operational and service processes. With thousands of organizations leveraging Lean today, this is your first step to become a Lean expert and champion Lean principles in your organization.

MASTERS CERTIFICATE IN BUSINESS ANALYSIS – FLEXIBLE OPTION

The Masters Certificate in Business Analysis builds the knowledge and skills of a successful and sought after Business Analyst – a competent and confident professional who achieves successful business solutions and satisfied customers. Our new flexible format allows you to close specific skills gaps at your own pace. Candidates may begin by taking individual courses contained in Certificates in Requirements Management and Certificate in Essentials of Modelling & Problem Solving. Participants leave each course with practical skills that can be applied immediately and new methodologies for solving problems.

MASTERS CERTIFICATE IN PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Control your project from initiation to closure with this popular 9 module, 18 day program. The curriculum includes case studies, lectures, simulations, and in-class exercises and discussions to teach you timely, pertinent topics designed to produce qualified, capable and well trained project managers. As a graduate of this program you will have the framework and essential tools to consistently deliver projects on time, on budget and on requirement.

OPERATIONAL EXCELLENCE CERTIFICATE

This program introduces a variety of process improvement tools, methods, and techniques. There is a particular emphasis on process mapping, Lean tools, methods, and techniques, and rigorous problem solving involving all types of problems. Improvement activities run the gamut from easily implementable ideas through a “clean sheet” process redesign. In addition all of the classes use the “learn by doing” approach where attendees immediately use the tools, methods, and techniques on their own organizations. It is very common that the classes pay for themselves through improvements and cost savings.

PMP EXAM PREPARATION COURSE (PMP)

In today’s fast-paced world of project management there is an ever increasing demand from organizations for project leaders and staff who have obtained the Project Management Institute’s (PMI®) Project Management Professional (PMP) designation. Successful completion of your PMP certification illustrates that you have world-class standardized project management knowledge and will open many new avenues of career growth.

PRINCE2® PROJECT MANAGEMENT CERTIFICATION

PRINCE2® methodology (PProjects IN Controlled Environments) offers a consistent approach to ensure project objectives are achieved on budget, on time and to clearly defined quality standards. PRINCE2 can be used on projects of any type, and it complements the Project Management Institute (PMI®), A Guide to the Project Management Body of Knowledge (PMBok®). If you are a project professional that interfaces with other global project organizations, or simply want to stay ahead of the project management community in Canada, PRINCE2 training is the right choice.

CUSTOM & CORPORATE TRAINING

Custom & Corporate Training from PACE can help you build team performance, develop group dynamics, enhance customer satisfaction, and develop employees, all while improving the bottom line.

WHY TRAIN FROM WITHIN?

High turnover rates can lower employee morale and damage your company's reputation. It's estimated that the cost of turnover is equal to three times the annual salary of one individual worker. In the last year, one in eight (or 14%) new-hire employees were unsuccessful (Canadian HR Reporter, February 15, 2013). Training from within can help new staff fit in right from the start and keep current staff up-to-date and challenged in their positions.

BENEFITS INCLUDE:

- Education delivered at times and locations that suit your needs
- Training that meets your specific organizational needs
- Knowledge and tools that can be applied immediately to the workplace
- Expert instructors who bring real-world experience to the classroom
- University credential opportunities
- Recognition of in-house learning programs

Extra Motivation!

“ LIVE AS IF YOU WERE TO DIE TOMORROW.
LEARN AS IF YOU WERE TO LIVE FOREVER. ”

- MAHATMA GANDHI
